How to use this template

Work through it in order. Each page of the template gives you a prompt in brackets, an example to copy the shape of, and space to write.

1. Answer the six questions first.
   Write rough answers to the questions on the next page before you touch a single page. Every page draws on the same answers, so writing them once saves you rewriting the same idea four times.

2. Fill in the brackets.
   Replace each [bracketed prompt] with your own words, using the example underneath as a guide. Keep the shape of the sentence and change the details, because the shape is what makes it easy to read.

3. Write for one customer.
   Picture one real customer reading the page on their phone. Write "you" and "your" more often than "we" and "our", so the page talks about their problem rather than your business.

4. Read it out loud before you publish.
   Read every page aloud once, then run the checklist on the last page. Anything you stumble over is something a visitor will skip, so rewrite it until it sounds like you talking.

> The examples use a made-up plumbing business, Coastline Plumbing, so you can see each prompt filled in. Swap in your own details and proof.

Before you write: six questions

Answer these in a sentence or two each. Your answers become the raw material for every page that follows.

1. Who do you help?
   Name the type of customer, such as homeowners, builders or small retailers.

2. What do they want to get done?
   Describe the job or result in their words, not your industry's.

3. Where do you work?
   List your town, region or suburbs, because people search with a place name.

4. Why should they choose you?
   Give proof: reviews, years in business, results, licences or guarantees.

5. What should they do next?
   Pick one main action, such as call, book or request a quote.

6. What words do your customers use?
   Copy phrases from reviews, emails and phone calls, and use them in your headings.

1. Home page

Your home page has one job: tell a visitor what you do, who it is for and where, then point them to the next step. Most visitors decide in a few seconds whether to stay, so the top of the page carries most of the weight.

HEADLINE

[Service] for [who you help] in [your area].

Example: Emergency plumbing for homes across the Gold Coast.

SUBHEADING

We [what you do] so you can [the result they want]. [One proof point].

Example: We fix leaks, blocked drains and hot water systems the same day, so your home is back to normal fast. Rated 4.9 stars from 230 Google reviews.

MAIN BUTTON

[Action verb] [what they get]

Example: Get a free quote

THREE BENEFITS

[Benefit as a short heading]. [One sentence on how you deliver it.]

Example: On time, every time. We text you when we are 30 minutes away, so you are not waiting around all day.

PROOF

"[A short customer review in their words]." [Name], [suburb]

Example: "They turned up within the hour and fixed it properly." Sarah, Robina

SERVICES

[Service name]: [one sentence on what it is and who it suits].

Example: Hot water systems: repairs and replacements for gas, electric and heat pump units.

CLOSING CALL TO ACTION

Ready to [result]? [Action verb] [what they get] today.

Example: Ready to fix that leak? Book a plumber today.

2. About page

Your about page answers one question: can I trust this business? Lead with what you do and for how long, then show the people behind it and the proof that backs you up.

OPENING LINE

[Business name] has [done what] for [who] in [area] since [year].

Example: Coastline Plumbing has fixed homes across the Gold Coast since 2009.

WHY YOU STARTED

[Founder] started the business because [the problem you saw]. [What you do differently as a result].

Example: Dan started Coastline after too many customers told him the last plumber never showed up. Every job now gets a confirmed arrival time.

THE TEAM

[Name], [role]: [one line about their experience or what they look after].

Example: Mia, office manager: answers every call and books every job.

WHAT YOU STAND FOR

[Promise]. [How you keep it, in one sentence].

Example: We clean up after ourselves. Every job ends with the area left as tidy as we found it.

CALL TO ACTION

[Action verb] [who] about [service].

Example: Talk to Dan about your next job.

3. Service page

Write one page for each service you want to be found for. A dedicated page lets Google match the page to the search, and lets you answer the questions customers ask about that one service.

HEADLINE

[Service] in [area]

Example: Hot water system repairs on the Gold Coast

FIRST PARAGRAPH

We [do the service] for [who] in [area]. [Who it suits or when they need it]. [The result they get].

Example: We repair and replace hot water systems for homes on the Gold Coast. Most jobs are done the same day, so you are not left without hot water for long.

WHAT'S INCLUDED

[Item one], [item two], [item three] and [item four].

Example: A full system check, a fixed quote before work starts, all parts and labour, and removal of the old unit.

HOW IT WORKS

1. [First step]. 2. [Second step]. 3. [Third step].

Example: 1. Call or book online. 2. We confirm a time and a fixed price. 3. We fix it and clean up.

FAQS

[A question customers really ask]? [Answer in the first sentence], then [one sentence of detail].

Example: Do you work weekends? Yes, we take emergency jobs seven days a week, with a call-out fee on Sundays.

CALL TO ACTION

[Action verb] [what they get] for your [service].

Example: Get a fixed quote for your hot water system.

4. Contact page

Your contact page should make the next step feel easy and safe. Say what happens after someone gets in touch, keep the form short and show every way to reach you.

HEADLINE

[Action] [who] about [what they need].

Example: Book a plumber or ask us a question.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT

Send us [what you need from them] and we will [what you do] within [timeframe].

Example: Send us a few details and a photo of the problem, and we will call you back within two hours.

CONTACT DETAILS

Phone: [number]. Email: [address]. Hours: [days and times]. Area: [where you work].

Example: Phone: 07 0000 0000. Hours: 7am to 6pm, Monday to Saturday. Area: Gold Coast and Tweed.

FORM FIELDS

Name, phone or email, and [one question that helps you quote].

Example: Name, phone, and "What needs fixing?"

Before you publish: the checklist

Tick every box on every page. Each one fixes a reason visitors leave without getting in touch.

- [ ] Each page has one main action, and the button says what the visitor gets.
- [ ] Every headline says what you do and where you do it.
- [ ] The page says "you" and "your" more often than "we" and "our".
- [ ] Each sentence carries one idea, and no paragraph runs longer than three lines on a phone.
- [ ] Every number, review and result is real and can be checked.
- [ ] Every page links to your contact page or shows your phone number.
- [ ] You have read each page out loud and rewritten anything you stumbled over.
- [ ] Each page has its own title tag and meta description that mention your service and area.
